

MCCANDLISH PHILLIPS JOURNALISM SCHOLARSHIP

The King's College offers up to four McCandlish Phillips Journalism Scholarships of $3,000 per year to incoming freshmen majoring in Journalism, Culture and Society.

ELIGIBILITY

Applicants must be accepted for admission to The King's College and have plans to enroll as a full-time Journalism, Culture and Society (JCS) major this fall.

TO MAINTAIN THIS YEARLY SCHOLARSHIP, STUDENTS MUST...

- Maintain a 3.0 GPA
- Remain enrolled as a JCS major
- Contribute to the Empire State Tribune or ESTv

HOW TO APPLY

Email three published clips and a 500-word personal statement answering the question, "How can someone be both an excellent journalist and a committed Christian?" to eglader@tkc.edu.

Questions regarding the scholarship or JCS program can be directed to the same email address.

APPLICATION DEADLINE: APRIL 15TH*

**DEADLINE EXTENDED TO MAY 15TH FOR THE 2020/2021 SCHOOL YEAR*

MAJORING IN JCS

JCS majors at The King's College prepare themselves for careers in the news media and related industries by learning to report and write news, feature stories, opinion pieces, cultural criticism, and other formats.

They also study the history, ethics, legal issues and theory related to journalism.

This training, coupled with internships and student media experience, helps students land their dream jobs.